

One of Century's Worst Storms Hits Northern Europe

Howling Winds, Raging Seas, Floods Clobber Coastal Areas

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—Howling winter winds, raging seas and floods clobbered northern Europe in one of its worst storms of the century today.

In Britain at least 11 persons perished and in Germany six were known dead with others feared drowned as the North sea smashed through coastal dikes.

Thousands fled their homes in the port cities of Hamburg and Bremerhaven in Germany and thousands more were reported fleeing from the lowlands. Many were believed caught asleep in their beds by gushing flood waters.

High winds pounded the Baltic Coast of Communist East Germany, causing considerable damage the official news agency ADN reported.

A spokesman for the Hamburg city government said between 30,000 and 40,000 persons were homeless.

Two villages on the upper Elbe River near the East German border were cut off when two dikes burst. West German army helicopters flew to evacuate the villagers.

U. S. Army soldiers in Bremerhaven, a U. S. Army embarkation port worked with Germans sandbagging dike breaches. Civilian telephone communications to Bremerhaven were cut.

Gales in Britain In Britain 100-mile-an-hour gales hit Sheffield, causing $5.6-million damage there alone.

On the seas, ships were reported in trouble.

A Danish schooner was reported in distress off the island of Rugen. The East German news agency said the crew of the unidentified craft was taken aboard a West German freighter.

The 7,775-ton Greek freighter Freisearchai was reported in distress off the Danish west coast. The Dirkzwager shipping agency in Rotterdam said the freighter radioed: "We are in a very dangerous position." The ship was reported then about 100 miles northwest of Esbjerg in Danish Jutland.

Hurricane force winds lashed most of Northern Europe Friday. In Britain property damage was estimated up to $5 million.

Reds Charge Allies With Aerial Piracy

Communists Assail Western Insistence To Air Rights

Chicago Daily News Service

BERLIN — Communist newspapers in East Berlin charged today that Western insistence on unrestricted traffic in the three air corridors to Berlin was "aerial piracy."

They made no mention of the Soviet attempts in the last 10 days to pre-empt the corridors for specified periods for their exclusive use.

So far today the Soviet challenge has not been resumed. But reports from Washington that the Soviets had indicated they would cease their hazardous campaign could not be confirmed here.

Meaning Not Clear The Soviet representative at the air safety center, it was said here had delivered a message Friday to his Western colleagues which might have been given this interpretation but its meaning was far from clear.

Senior allied officials have been appalled by the apparent readiness of the Soviet Union to risk a major clash.

Friday the Soviets undertook to reserve the northern air corridor to Hamburg for a period of two and a half hours the sixth such attempt since Feb. 8. Unlike Thursday however there was no mass turnout of Soviet aircraft.

Weather rather than any second thoughts about the dangers that might be involved, may well have been the reason. Violent winds and heavy clouds persisted throughout Friday and again today.

Junge Welt the newspaper of the Communist Youth Organization in East Germany said the Western attitude was provocative and intended to prevent any settlement of the Berlin problem.

U.S. Sending Investigators To Leopoldville

Criminal Experts To Check on Congo Slaying of Colonel

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Two U. S. military criminal investigators have arrived from Germany to help investigate the death of Lt. Col. Hulien D. Stogner, assistant U. S. military attaché, an embassy spokesman announced today.

The two officers of the Army Criminal Investigation Division are to assist Congolese authorities responsible for investigating the crime, the spokesman said. Presumably they will be concerned with more technical aspects of the slaying, such as examination of ballistic evidence.

Was Shot Stogner was shot in bed at his home in suburban Leopoldville last Wednesday.

The embassy spokesman said it is a normal practice in any crime involving American military personnel for government investigators to assist and be on hand during inquiries. There is no indication how long the present inquiry will take but embassy officers warned it would probably be a long drawn-out affair. One of the main questions thus far is motive.

Two Congolese men have been taken into police custody for questioning—an embassy chauffeur whom the embassy said had not provided useful information and Stogner's houseboy who is still held by police.

Was Interviewed Miss Elizabeth Thrane, an American blonde from Washington D. C. who was with Stogner when he was shot, and who turned in the alarm was interviewed Friday in the hope she could give further clues. She is remaining to help in the investigation.

The petite 21-year-old blonde said earlier that Stogner was lying on his bed reading Wednesday night when a sniper shot him through the window. She said she saw a Congolese man running away.

200 Left Homeless After Formosan Fire

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Two hundred persons were left homeless today by a fire which gutted 66 houses and damaged 10 others at Tainan in South Formosa. There were no casualties.

Mickey Cohen Free on Bail

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ex-gambler Mickey Cohen is out of jail on bail, thanks to a second order from U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Cohen was freed under $100,000 bond Friday pending his appeal from an income tax evasion conviction.

Bail in this amount was allowed earlier by the first order of Justice Douglas but Federal Court here declined to comply on the ground that the bond should be accompanied by sureties guaranteeing payment of Cohen's $30,000 fine in case his appeal should fail.

Minimum Combat, Loss of Life by Americans

U. S. Officials Optimistic About Vietnamese Guerrilla Warfare

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials say the guerrilla war in South Viet Nam will be won with a minimum amount of combat and loss of life by Americans.

As this official optimism was being expressed here Friday there was a report in Saigon the United States is going to triple the length of service of some of its Army men in Viet Nam.

About three-fourths of the estimated 4,000 U. S. servicemen there are assigned to a temporary six months tour of duty, but an informant said this is being extended to a permanent 18-month tour for some key personnel such as helicopter pilots.

Information Classified The Saigon dispatch said official information on the extension was classified presumably to avoid calling more attention to the U. S. military build-up. It is aimed at keeping the Southeast Asian country from falling to Communist guerrillas and infiltrators shipping across the border from North Viet Nam.

The situation will take Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on another flying trip to Hawaii this weekend for a conference with top officers and diplomats from the Red-pressed country.

He will leave Sunday, accompanied by Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul A. Nitze, and W. Averell Harriman, Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs.

Gen. Martin Arrives Gen. Paul D. Harkins, newly appointed U. S. military commander in Viet Nam, arrived in Honolulu Friday to prepare for the talks.

It will be the third such Viet Nam conference for McNamara in two months.

As McNamara's trip was announced, U. S. officials were expressing their optimism.

They said their feeling was based on the assessment that President Ngo Dinh Diem is making sufficient reforms — pressed on him by the United States — to gain the support of the people in South Viet Nam.

Also they feel the South Vietnamese troops are quickly learning the antiguerrilla techniques so they can battle the Viet Cong Communist rebels themselves without direct action by Americans.

The change of place indicates that Algerians expect heated debates on this crucial decision which will mould Algerian life for generations. Ratification of cease fire and cooperation agreements with French will require a four fifths majority.

Despite severe rules laid by Algerians for ratification the general impression in Tunis as reported here this morning was that the Algerian parliament will accept the compromise reached and give final approval after three or four days' discussion.

A formal peace announcement could be made in Paris observers believe before the end of the month.

Indonesians Hear That U.S. Won't Change Attitude

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy bluntly told Indonesians today they would be crazy to think the United States would lose aside its neutral attitude and oppose the Dutch in Indonesia's claim to West New Guinea.

"If you don't like our attitude there is no point in your getting upset or angry about it," he told Bandung University students on a delayed visit to this West Java capital.

The United States, he said, is friendly to both Indonesia and the Dutch. Asking the students to take a mature approach, Kennedy declared: "If you upset us we are not going to tell our people to get out of Indonesia. We will not say to hell with you. And do not say it to us."

The students reacted to Kennedy's remarks with surprising calm and later good humoredly surrounded him as he walked to his car.

YAF Erred in Planning Rally In New York

Communism Wasn't Approached as Bipartisan Issue

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Mass meetings to espouse a cause are not only legitimate as an expression of the "free speech" idea in America, but they give a chance to publicize movements that sometimes have a hard time getting attention.

Lawrence

Last autumn, the "Young Americans for Freedom" started planning for a rally to be held on March 7 in Madison Square Garden in New York City. It was planned as a manifestation of the interest of the younger generation in the cause of anti-Communism. But lately it has been getting some unfavorable publicity because some of the persons designated to receive awards have not accepted the invitations.

As with some other new organizations venturing into the domain of public rallies, mistakes have been made in the planning of such events. In the first place, only one Democrat and several Republicans in Congress were invited to speak. This caused Sen. Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, a Democrat, to withdraw his acceptance. He said:

Bipartisan Effort

"I regard the anti-Communist cause as one which, if it is to succeed, must function as a bipartisan movement which is neither dominated by nor identified with any political party or any political faction."

"When I received your initial invitation, I had the expectation that the award presentation was to be a nonpartisan meeting for the purpose of honoring a diverse group of Americans for contributions to freedom and anti-Communism."

Then Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, Republican, who had been invited to speak, wrote that it would be politically embarrassing for him to be there. He said this was because Gen. Edwin A. Walker — who had been announced as a speaker — is a candidate in the Democratic primary for governor of Texas. So the invitation to the general was withdrawn.

No Visa for Tshombe

Another unfortunate episode occurred. The organization invited Moise Tshombe, the leader of the secessionist movement in the Congo, to appear and receive a citation. But the Congolese leader hasn't been able to get a visa from the U. S. Department of State for his passport. The State Department said Thursday that a visit by Tshombe at this time would "interrupt and jeopardize efforts to unify the Congo."

Where the planners of the mass meeting of the "Young Americans for Freedom" made their error was in combining a controversial rally in behalf of Tshombe with an award-giving ceremony to Americans, among them persons prominent in party politics. Those invited to accept awards may look askance at possible misinterpretations that could ensue from their presence at such ceremonies.

doesn't participate in rallies of this kind and about two months ago declined an invitation to accept an award at the Madison Square Garden meeting of March 7. Although he had never authorized the use of his name, it appeared by mistake on the literature first announcing the rally.

Unworthy Causes

Conservative organizations have sprung up in various parts of the country. Some are conscientiously trying to promote worthy causes. There have been organizations on the conservative and on the radical sides which have done effective work for their causes on college campuses. Others, however, have hurt a cause by their unfounded and slanderous statements. The John Birch Society, for instance, might have made more headway had not its leader attacked men like Gen. Eisenhower as allegedly being pro-Communist.

Also, there's another organization out West which in recent months has kept up a letter campaign against the Council on Foreign Relations in New York City. The cry is that the latter association has Communist leanings. This is an absurd charge. The council is an organization of 1,800 members who meet privately as a similar group and listen periodically to lectures from prominent persons in the field of foreign affairs. Secretaries of state, other government officials and prominent visitors from abroad have been among its many speakers.

This writer has answered scores of letters from readers who have been misled by such propaganda, and has defended the Council on Foreign Relations.

Public Misled

A vast amount of ill-considered literature on public affairs has been circulated by various organizations in recent months — ranging in subject matter all the way from partisan politics to attacks on religious denominations. Perhaps the persons who have engaged in this kind of warfare have themselves been misled either by impassioned lectures or through leaflets of an irresponsible kind.

It is, therefore, very important that "cause" groups — which do come out in the open and number among their sponsors people in positions of responsibility in business, the professions or in the educational world, whether they be conservative or radical — should be especially careful to disclose fully their basic purposes and personnel. For the public often cannot judge the merits of a movement just by its name — the people can have confidence in an organization as a rule only when they recognize the names of sponsors whose characters and positions in public affairs are known to them.

Convicts Hit on Novel Idea to Raise Money for Prison Chapel

BY GEORGE CORNELL

NAPANOCH, N.Y. (AP)—Convicts at the prison here want a place to worship. And they've hit on a novel plan for getting it. The convicts are collecting trading stamps.

"It's an unusual procedure," said the Rev. Matthew Killion, Roman Catholic chaplain at the prison. "But the usual methods of raising funds are not available here."

So the men behind bars, with an assist from the outside, began gathering the stamps—to be redeemed in cash or materials for construction of a prison chapel.

It'll be called "St. Jude's Within the Walls." St. Jude is the patron saint of the forlorn.

Within Few Months

Through the Knights of Columbus, religious and fraternal organization, a call has gone out to Catholic men to send in stamps, individually or in books, to implement the project.

"It's a wonderful opportunity," said John Symonds of New York City, state deputy of the K. of C. "I'm quite confident that we can get sufficient stamps within a few months to defray the expense of this chapel."

There are about 1,100 inmates in the prison here, the Eastern State Correctional Institution. Some are mental defectives, serving indeterminate terms. Many

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. I have a parakeet that laid 74 eggs in the past year. She is so weak she can't fly any more. Is there any medication I can give her? Mrs. Kopet, Long Island City, N. Y.

A. Your parakeet has certainly done her share toward the parakeet population explosion. She undoubtedly has an imbalance of hormones. You don't mention whether there is a male parakeet to fertilize her eggs. This might induce her to hatch some of the eggs which, in turn, might restore the hormone balance. If this is not feasible, I would suggest the administration of hormones, preferably by injection. Your veterinarian will know the type of hormone and how to administer it. In the meantime, feed your parakeet well, but keep away from all products containing egg as this might stimulate egg laying.

United Lutheran Church Cancels Printing Of Book Showing Differences With Catholics

BY JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP)—A few weeks ago the board of education of the United Lutheran Church in America abruptly canceled the impending publication of a book that had been nearly six years in preparation.

Title of the book was "The Difference." It explored things that divide Lutherans and Catholics. "Considerable time has elapsed since this course was first projected, and the climate has undergone a marked change in the interim," explained the Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Getz of the board's editorial division.

Stress on Understanding "Recently the emphasis has been upon conversations between the two faiths," he said, "and stress is being laid upon understanding each other."

Similar manifestations of this new religious climate are occurring in every part of the nation, and it's safe to say that next week's 28th annual Brotherhood Week will be observed in an atmosphere closer than ever before to that which its sponsor, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, seeks to promote. The new climate is reflected in a series of four pamphlets the NCCJ has issued for this year's observance. Their common title is "Platform of Good Will" and they present the viewpoints of Catholic, Protestant, Jew and Eastern Orthodox.

Written Separately

Though they were written separately, a thread of similarity runs through all four pamphlets which further points up today's emphasis on conversation and understanding noted by Dr. Getz.

"The notable achievements in the fight against religious intolerance during this century," writes Protestant Jaroslav Pelikan, professor of ecclesiastical history at Yale Divinity School, "make it possible, perhaps for the first time, to think about going beyond mere tolerance to genuine understanding."

The Rev. Walter J. Ong, S.J., professor of English at St. Louis University, feels "the world into which we are moving is one which cannot endure unless men increase their understanding of one another," and that understanding is possible "only when there is some degree of communication between those seeking" it.

The Rev. Leonidas C. Contos, dean of the St. Sophia Greek Orthodox Cathedral in Los Angeles, says the followers of the various religions instead of talking to themselves "have begun to say some meaningful things to each other."

Dr. Bernard Mandelbaum, provost of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, also sees the need for conversation and suggests it begin by discussing similarities rather than differences. But he also says "this is not to imply that any energies needed to preserve the distinctive faiths should be diverted from that purpose."

Book Case Top Has Burned Area

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q. We have low wood book shelves in the living room. A cigarette fell off the edge of an ash tray on the top of the book case and there is now a burned area on the wood. How can this be repaired? Varnished oak.

A. If the damage hasn't gone clear through the finish and burned the wood itself, it's not too difficult a repair job. With a sharp razor blade, carefully scrape away the charred material. If necessary, scrape down to bare wood, apply a little stain of the same color as the rest of the wood before the rebuilding process can be started. When the stain is thoroughly dry, build up the scraped-away burned area with one thin coat after another of top quality varnish, applying it with a small artist's brush. Be sure each coat is dried thoroughly before the next is put on.

Wicker Chair Seats

Q. We have several wicker seat chairs (on metal frame and legs) which we use in our recreation room. The wicker is beginning to look worn. How can this be repaired?

A. The easiest way is to wipe the surfaces clean with turpentine. Then spray on shellac or varnish or paint. The spray will work into tiny crevices which would be much more difficult to reach with a brush.

Wall Over Radiator Cover

Q. We bought a cover to enclose our living room radiator to make it less conspicuous in the room. We notice that the wall above the cover is beginning to darken. Is there any way to overcome this?

A. It sounds as though the radiator is not completely enclosed, that there is no back to the radiator cover. Therefore, when the heat rises, drawing up dust with it behind the radiator, the dust is deposited on the wall. Probably before the cover was installed, dust was so diffused with the rising warm air, you didn't notice it.

Fasten a sheet of aluminum as a back to the radiator enclosure. This will not only help prevent dust rising and landing on the wall, but will also reflect heat back into the room instead of its being absorbed by the wall.

New Brass Finish

Q. We recently acquired a new brass lamp. How can the shiny another? and that understanding is possible "only when there is some degree of communication between those seeking" it.

Seide's experiences are related in an article with George Goodman in the March edition of the magazine Esquire.

The article is entitled "How I Selected Westerns, Bought Socks & Prepared Paintings for President Eisenhower."

Our Children

Growth of Soul A Slow Process

BY ANGELO PATRI

We are the impatient people wanting everything done right now, when life continues its slow and seemingly wasteful way, with no apparent intention to change. We are inclined to be irritable, stamp up and down the earth, waving our arms and demanding that something be done.

We will have to be patient with life because we are slow-growing, slow-developing creatures, who have made our way up from the depths of darkness to where we are now, always driven, pushed on, urged by some power we do not understand, some inner force that would not allow us to dwell long at any level of being. Each short step upward made the next one imperative, each new vision opened, led to the brow of the next hill.

We cannot hurry the growth of man's soul. It is his soul that leads him out of the blackness of ignorance into the dawn of intelligence, lifts him out of the mire of animality to whatever height of spiritual growth he has attained. The symbols of civilization we have acquired on the upward march — our houses, machines, the rewards of labor — are not the indications of real growth.

The measure of that growth is the amount of love we have for our fellow man, the ruling motive of life on this earth.

The world and its people live and have their being in love that has set the laws of the universe. Slowly Learn Truth.

Men, in their anxiety and haste to make a more perfect world for themselves, try to evade the law and the result is what we see: fear, hate, wars, suffering and sorrow. Whatever the hand of selfish man laid hold on his life and tried to wrench it free of that law, which decreed, "All men are brothers," he destroyed the very thing he hoped for.

There is so much hidden from us, much we cannot understand, and our faith falters. Yet, somewhere in the silence, there is a Power forever urging man to free himself from the stupidity of selfishness and lean hard on the faith that is in him.

Long ages of time must pass before man arrives at this place of spiritual understanding. Now, one, in the East, one, in the West, one, in your town, one, far-off, feels the truth of life moving him. As time passes, another and another will join the group of matured souls and, in its own good time, love will possess the earth.

Retooling Job Before Meeting Man's Parents Puzzles Girl

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What would you do if you were in my shoes? I've been going with Herbert for six months. I am 23. He is 27. We met at work.

Herbert's parents live in this city but I've never met them. He never suggested it until last week. Now it seems his mother would like me to come to dinner on his birthday which will be next month.

Herbert has already told me what to wear, how to fix my hair and what to say. He suggested I leave the nail polish off and drop the hem of my good black dress a couple of inches.

Herbert has warned me against talking politics with his father as his views are different from his and there may be an argument. I've had so much coaching I'm a wreck. I repeat—what would you do if you were in my shoes?—B Ball as belongs around her husband's place of business unless there's a good reason.

How can I get this across to him without being too blunt?—Stumped

Dear Stumped: The direct approach is best. Tell the father, as you told me, that he is the best teacher you've had in a long time and you'd hate to let him go. Explain that his wife's presence at the station interferes with his work, and it's up to him to tell her so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Next month I am to be a bridesmaid for a dear friend. She is marrying a young man from a prominent family so there have been many showers and parties.

I want to give her a unique shower so I hit on the idea of a "pantry supply party." By this I mean food stuffs, such as flour, sugar, spices, detergent, floor wax and so on.

I discussed this with a few girls and they all thought it was terrific.

fic. Then I received a call from the bride's mother. She was raging mad. According to her such a party was "in abominable taste" and "any girl who can't afford to buy her own flour and sugar has no business getting married."

I am terribly disturbed by her call but I don't want to abandon the idea unless you tell me it is a poor plan.—Undecided

Dear Undecided: Have the pantry supply party. The purpose of a shower is to bring the bride practical gifts, and flour and sugar are a great deal more useful than the 15th finger-tip guest towel.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hired a very good man to work in my service station. He's the best worker I've had in a long time and I'd hate to let him go.

The problem is his wife. She comes to the station three times a day, kids around with the customers and interferes with her husband's work. At noon she brings him a hot lunch. Then she's back again about 3 p.m. At 5:30 she is hanging around some more to drive him home at quitting time, which is 6:30.

I have a wife, too, but she never comes down to the station unless it's to help out with the bookkeeping. I don't think a woman English radio program. (Apparently the English think there is time for other things besides soap opera and the latest rock-and-roll.) Two English players were given the North-South hands and

Some of the smaller stations in Appleton have considered closing on Sunday, but no definite decisions have been announced.

A spokesman for a station located on a highway in Appleton said stations on the principal routes do a heavy gasoline business on Sundays and it was unlikely they would close. The smaller stations plan to see the effect on their business of the stores closing on Sunday before reaching a decision, he said.

the opening lead. The problem was to find the best line of play for the slam in notrump.

One player fell into the trap. He decided to play a low diamond from dummy to make sure of four diamond tricks. East put up the jack, and South had to win with the king.

South next led a spade, and West played low. When dummy's king of spades produced a heart from East, South knew he was a goner.

South could get to his hand only once, with the ace of hearts, to lead another spade through West. Naturally West would play the nine, and dummy would win with the jack. Dummy would eventually have to give up two spade tricks to West.

See Point

The other player saw the point of the hand. The diamonds are meaningless; you have to play the spades to lose only one trick.

There is no problem unless the spades are 4-1. This break cannot be handled if East has all four spades, but South can make the slam if West has all the spades.

The correct play is to win the first diamond in dummy and lead the king of spades at once to find out how the suit breaks. West takes the ace of spades and returns some safe card.

South gets to his hand with the king of diamonds to lead a spade through West, capturing the nine of spades with dummy's jack. Then South gets to his hand with the ace of hearts to lead another spade through West. This brings in the rest of dummy's long suit and fulfills the slam contract.

Daily Question

With neither side vulnerable, your partner deals and bids one spade. The next player passes, and you hold: S. None; H. Q 10 8 6 3; D. J 8; C. J 8 7 5 3 2. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. It would be fine if you could bid one of the long suits and make sure of striking a fit and still not getting too high. A bid will probably land you at a high doubled contract. Pass before you're hurt.

Massacre of Catholic Priests in Congo Had Beginning Years Ago

Missionaries May Have Died Because Of Association of Church and State

BY SMITH HEMPHSTONE
Chicago Daily News Service

NAIROBI, Kenya — To some degree the Belgian Catholic priests murdered in northern Katanga on New Year's Day may have died because of the close association in the native mind between the Catholic church and the former colonial administration.

When the Congo was Belgian, it was said that the country was run by a triumvirate composed of the government, big business and the Catholic church.

The church's involvement in Congolese politics began in 1602 when the Portuguese became the first white men to reach the Congo.

It took the Portuguese nine years to talk Nzinga Ntutu, the Bakongo emperor whose kingdom covered not only the coastal area of the Congo but large portions of Angola and the ex-French Congo, into becoming a Christian.

The old king's successor, Don Afonso, had his tribesmen baptized by the thousands and his son, Don Henrique, was made a bishop in 1519.

Diplomatic Relations

One of the first acts of Don Afonso was to establish diplomatic relations with the Holy See. There were Congolese ambassadors in Rome and Papal nuncios at Mbanza, the Bakongo capital, for more than 100 years.

When the Congolese King Alvaro II turned against the Portuguese in 1580, he tried unsuccessfully to persuade Rome to make the lower Congo a Papal protectorate.

In more recent colonial times under the Belgians, the work of the Catholic church in the Congo was carried out by 146 missionary orders. Of these, 46 are for priests and brothers and 100 for nuns.

The 760 Catholic schools and mission posts were staffed by more than 3,000 white priests, 2,800 white nuns, about 400 Congolese priests and 800 Congolese nuns assisted by 25,566 "catechizers."

Congolese Catholics number an estimated 4.5 million out of a total population of 13 million. Another 900,000 Congolese are Protestant. The rest, with the exception of a sprinkling of Moslems in the eastern and northern areas, are animists (Pagans).

Missionary Societies

Forty-two Protestant missionary societies staffed by 615 white clergymen, 1,028 white women missionaries, 1,195 African pastors and 14,728 African "catechizers" man 329 missions. All the Protestant missions, with the exception of the Seventh Day Adventists, work jointly under the umbrella of "the Church of Christ in the Congo."

The majority of the white Protestant missionaries are Americans and Britons.

The Protestant missions have come in for less criticism from the Congolese than the Catholics because of their less strict discipline, the lack of a rigid hierarchy, and their willingness to transfer authority to the Congolese.

All Protestant missions in the Congo are now run by Congolese with whites in the status of "internal workers."

So far as is known, no white Protestant missionaries have been killed by Congolese although many, including Americans, have been beaten up. Protestant church property has suffered less damage than Catholic property.

Catholic Priests

It should not be forgotten, however, that despite the association, real and fancied, between Catholic church and state during the colonial regime, it was Catholic priests who first sparked the nationalist movement through the formation of study and discussion groups among educated Congolese.

The most prominent graduate of these groups is the Congo's president, Joseph Kasavubu, who once studied for the priesthood. Significantly, it was a Catholic-sponsored publication, "Conscience Africain," which in 1958 first marshalled nationalist feeling among the Congolese.

Its editor, Joseph Ileo, Patrice Lumumba's successor as prime minister and now minister of information in the Aoula government.

However, despite this and the fact that the first Congolese priest was ordained as early as 1918 and the first Congolese bishop was consecrated in 1956, the identification of the Catholic church with the colonial regime and big business remains in most Congolese minds.

The situation in the Baluba areas of northern Katanga where the massacres have taken place is exacerbated because the anti-Tshombe Baluba leader, Jason Sendwe, is a Methodist.

Not Religious

This is not to say, however, that the massacres are fundamentally religious in nature or that they stem from the Catholic church's former association with the state. Moise Tshombe, after all, is also a Methodist.

The priests were massacred not so much because they were priests as because they were white members of a privileged elite associated with the Katanga government and regarded as anti-Baluba. The fact that they were Catholics at most was a contributory factor.

The Congolese priests are far from the first Catholic martyrs in the Congo. It is calculated that 290 Catholic missionaries lost their lives in the first 20 years (1890-1910) of white administration.

In those days, it was the exceptional priest who survived more than six years in the Congo before succumbing to illness or fatigue.

By spear or by virus, the Congo has always eaten those who serve it.

The Truth About the Alamo

War in Viet Nam

The war in Viet Nam, acknowledged by President Kennedy as showing "increasing ferocity," is obviously involving United States forces. This is not news to Americans although our government has been more than reluctant to release information about the extent of our military assistance.

Apparently, when Gen. Maxwell Taylor made his report on the situation in Viet Nam several months ago, the decision was made to put enough help into the area to enable President Ngo Dinh Diem to drive out the Communist Viet Cong. Reportedly Gen. Taylor assured President Kennedy that this could be done without committing much in the way of United States troops. Economic and military aid also was stepped up and advice was given to Diem on how to encourage his people to resist the Communist infiltration.

At this time the United States is supposed to have about 4,000 men in Viet Nam. This Military Assistance Command, under the leadership of Gen. Paul Harkins, is not supposed to enter into active combat although the men have orders to shoot back if attacked. Their primary duties are to help train Vietnamese troops, presumably in the guerrilla methods we have heard so much about lately, and to transport combat troops to battle areas.

Government releases indicate that there are several reasons for the restrictions on information which includes prohibiting newsmen from accompanying American troops to combat areas. The reasons include "security," and an effort not to make headlines that will force the Reds into committing more forces to the area. Do we actually believe that the Viet Cong, the Viet Minh, the Red Chinese and the Russians don't know about American troops unless they read it in American newspapers? Do they determine their degree of aggression upon the publicity?

It seems far more likely that the Kennedy Administration is more than sensitive about activities of American troops since the Cuban disaster. Criticism of a government which doesn't hesitate to fight Communists some 4,000 miles away but which loses its nerve when the enemy is only 90 miles off our shores would certainly be forthcoming. On the other hand, it may have been the Cuban fiasco which woke up President Kennedy and his chief advisors as to the importance of fighting Communist aggression.

Viet Nam should not be lost to the Reds. Such a defeat would open all of Southeast Asia to quick conquest. It would discourage and disillusion our Asian allies. But we are not convinced that only United States troops should be active in the area. What has happened to SEATO?

In an interview last week, President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines said "whether SEATO should send ground forces to help South Viet Nam is a military question for the military experts of SEATO to decide. Should they so decide favorably, the Philippines is ready to send troops to South Viet Nam." Isn't this the time for our State Department to encourage SEATO to fight this war?

In any case, a war in the 20th Century is not going to be kept quiet.

BY CHARLES RAMSDELL

Few battles in our history have had more reverberations than the siege of the Alamo, and yet no battle of consequence has been so skimpily reported.

In this action, fewer than 200 men, most of them Americans, were besieged by 3,000 Mexican troops in a fortress built on the ruins of a Spanish mission at San Antonio, from Feb. 23 to March 6, 1836, when the walls were stormed and the defenders slaughtered to the last man.

None of the Mexican officers who witnessed the shambles cared to give a full account. The Even for non-Texans the Alamo stands as a symbol against aggression, and a monument to liberty. But folklore has clouded the true account and colored the evidence, which is resited here by an authority on southwestern history, descendant of an officer's wife who survived the siege unharmed.

only plausible version was written by the Mexican second-in-command, Gen. Vicente Filisola, but he did not arrive till three days after the last shot had been fired.

Recent writings give proof that a stereotype has now emerged which depicts the Alamo as an indefensible ruin held in defiance of superior orders by a band of frontiersmen valiant but far from wise.

Few Were Texans

And yet, according to the scattered evidence, the Alamo was "a strong place," and the defenders were in good part professional men. They disobeyed no orders, and their sacrifice was not without effect.

Few of the 150 "effective" men who went into the Alamo on Feb. 23 at the approach of the Mexican army were Texans. Most had come from the southwestern United States, but a few were natives of the Atlantic seaboard.

But their officers were well-known figures among the American colonists in Texas, then a part of Mexico. The men in the Alamo, therefore, were in sympathy with the Texas revolution, and had come to join it.

The revolution was not a conflict between peoples, or systems of government, or a conspiracy to steal Texas away from Mexico.

Defense Operation

It was actually a stand against the military dictatorship, unleashed by Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, a bloody-minded royalist officer who had seized power in Mexico and threatened to launch an army of occupation on Texas. Mexican forces entered Texas from the coast in mid-September of 1835 and occupied San Antonio.

The Texas revolution flared, but its aim was not, in the beginning, independence from Mexico. It was a defense operation. Only while the Alamo was under bombardment did the colonists declare the independence of Texas.

When the colonists began their revolt, events had been going badly for the forces of the Mexican government. The colonists had resisted efforts of the Mexican troops to take a cannon at Gonzales, and by capturing the fort at Goliad, had cut the exiled garrison at San Antonio off from the sea, and finally forced it to surrender.

Planned New Empire

Nearly half of those who were to become the defenders of the Alamo went through this 10-week campaign, then waited out the hard winter at San Antonio. They were abandoned by 200 victory-happy volunteers who headed south to seize the Mexican port of Matamoros.

(Ed. Note: At this time in the history of the Texas territory, residents were split over total independence from Mexico—and eventual statehood—versus combining with the mine-rich northern territory of Mexico to form a new empire. The proponents of this latter scheme planned such a coup by collusion with Mexican politicians, and the Matamoros expedition was the first step.)

Working through the provisional council, the scheme's proponents succeeded in shunting aside the provisional governor, Henry Smith, and the commander-in-chief, Gen. Sam Houston, both of whom were in favor of independence, and made Houston's subaltern, James W. Fannin, its agent.

Meanwhile, at San Antonio, 104 men under Col. J. C. Neill were left destitute, for the stampede for Matamoros had carried off most of the food, clothing, medicines, and the horses. When this was reported to Smith, he vented his wrath on the council, which "deposed" him. He in turn "dissolved" the council. Until the convention met in March, the government of Texas was divided against itself. The result was disaster, at the Alamo and elsewhere.

80 Effective Men

By mid-January, there were only 80 effective men at the Alamo. The rest, apparently colonists, had gone home.

To defend the sprawling compound, the Americans had about 20 captured cannon and a prized 18-pounder which was given the place of honor, pointing at the town. This was a tremendous armament for that time and place. The Americans improved the fort, building ditches and redoubts.

Houston, before leaving the field to Fannin, sent Col. James Bowie to San Antonio with about 30 men and the suggestion to Neill to remove the artillery and blow up the Alamo. Bowie wrote: "Col. Neill and I have come to the solemn resolution that we will rather die in these ditches than give it up to the enemy."

Though the council issued an order that no more men were to be sent to San Antonio—and no supplies were ever sent—Gov. Smith had already sent Col. William Barret Travis with 26 men of the Regular Texas Army. Also on hand were Davy Crockett and his 12 "Tennessee boys" who arrived about Feb. 10. Travis replaced Neill who took leave because of sickness in his family. Bowie proved to be in the last stages of consumption.

Why They Remained

The ragged men at the Alamo had only beef and corn to eat—no coffee, sugar, or salt. Why did they remain at their post? The answer is given in their manifesto: "Resolved, that we have left every endearment, as our respective places of abode in the United States of America, to maintain and defend our brethren, at the peril of our lives, liberties, and fortunes."

By early February, Santa Anna had feverishly assembled 7,000 troops in Mexico which he could hurl against Texas. The officers at the Alamo were kept informed by friendly Mexicans who traded across the Rio Grande.

It has been said that the officers of the Alamo "allowed themselves to be surprised" by Santa Anna. But even with a much larger garrison and many more horses, it would have been impossible to guard all the trails from the Rio Grande.

They could not have known that Santa Anna would drive his troops through a snowstorm and searing heat, across deserts, without adequate rations and without any medicines, the sick heaped on pack animals, the dead strewn along the way. They could not have known, yet, the full measure of his contempt for human life, except his own.

Enemy Arrives

On the afternoon of Feb. 23, Santa Anna's advance guard entered the town. The men were in the Alamo, along with several friendly Mexicans, including women and children; also the wife and infant daughter of Almeron Dickinson, captain of artillery.

Santa Anna hoisted a blood-red flag from the parish church, meaning "no quarter." Travis responded from the Alamo with a cannon shot.

The next day he sent out his famous message: "Fellow citizens and compatriots, I am besieged by 1,000 or more of the Mexicans under Santa Anna—I have sustained a continual bombardment & cannonade for 24 hours & have not lost a man—The enemy has demanded a Surrender at discretion, otherwise the garrison are to be put to the sword, if the fort is taken... I shall never surrender or retreat."

During the first four days of the siege the defenders made sallies, burned huts near the walls, and fought the attackers hand to hand when necessary. But after Feb. 26 they were hedged in by artillery.

Crockett Fiddles

Davy Crockett entertained the men with his fiddle, but he did not like to be penned up. "I think we had better march out of here and die in the open air," he would say.

But if the main body of defenders was pinned down, couriers could still go in and out. Travis appealed to the colonists at Gonzales, and a band of 32 volunteers, some of them boys, somehow found their way into the Alamo.

On March 3 Travis wrote his last letters and sent them out by couriers. He said the garrison had been "miraculously preserved"; he had not lost a man. But two 9-pounders near the town were tearing holes in the walls with every shot.

That same day, March 3, Travis is said to have drawn a line with his sword on the ground, and to have asked those who would stay in the Alamo to the end to step over it and stand beside him. The story relates that only one man stepped back, and later made his escape.

On the same day, Santa Anna had heavy guns placed within musket range of the Alamo's north wall; despite the popular assumption that nobody was hurt in 11 days of shelling, skeletons in buckskin tatters dug up from the floor of the church years afterward should be proof that the Mexican artillery was effective.

Mexicans Attack

On the night of March 5, a roaring cannonade shook the Alamo. At five the next morning there suddenly came the tramping of massed feet, thousands of feet, advancing at a run.

The assault was intended to be a surprise, but raw recruits yelled "Viva Santa Anna!" and the cannon of the Alamo blazed. One Mexican saw 40 of his comrades fall around him. The mass surged against the wall and broke, screaming.

Again the columns were driven forward. The slaughter had gone on for nearly two hours when Santa Anna gave word to pull back his haggled ranks. He called up his reserves.

An eye-witness, an administrative official of the Spaniards at San Antonio, said, "At the third charge the battalion of Toluca began to scale the walls and suffered severely. Out of 800 men only 130 were left alive." Then, according to the account written later by Gen. Filisola, the columns attacking the east and west sides joined the force on the north, smashed over the cannon, and poured through the breach.

Colonists Aroused

Travis fell on the gun there, "a single bullet wound in his forehead."

The men in the Alamo abandoned their artillery as the Mexican troops "poured over the walls like sheep." They clubbed their assailants with the stocks as they ran for the two-story stone building on the east side of the plaza, which had been prepared for a final stand.

Against this building, the Mexican troops, said Filisola, turned the captured guns, "and within these doors, by grape-shot, musketshot, and the bayonet, they were all killed at last."

The Mexican women were questioned by Santa Anna and released. Mrs. Almeron Dickinson—widow of the captain of artillery—and her child were treated kindly, and they were sent back to Gonzales by horseback, with an intimidating message for the colonists.

'Remember the Alamo'

Travis had said, three days before he died, "Victory will cost the enemy no dear, it will be worse for him than a defeat." Santa Anna's frightful losses did not deter him from driving his army on through Texas. But the slaughter of the men in the Alamo shocked the colonists out of their apathy.

Then Sam Houston, with less than 400 men, began a strategic retreat eastward, drawing Santa Anna after him. At last, on April 21, Santa Anna, who had dashed on with a fraction of his army to Galveston Bay, was surprised by Houston's smaller force. The Mexican commander was captured, and more than half his men were killed. The cry was "Remember the Alamo!"

Open Bond Sales

A word of praise is due the state building commission of Wisconsin, which has decided that its next issue of state building corporation bonds will be sold through competitive bidding of underwriters, thus providing a kind of bench-mark for the financing which apparently is going to be more important in state affairs in the future.

Heretofore the bonds of the quasi-public building corporations have been sold on a negotiated and exclusive basis through a Chicago underwriting firm, under the terms of a contract entered into several years ago and that now has expired.

There is no way to know whether that was a fair and prudent proposition for the state, although there is no imputation here, or in the discussions of the building commission, that it was not.

The fact is, however, that the state ought to know whether it has been handling these issues of increasingly large size in the best manner available and the competitive sale now ordered for the next issue will provide a basis of comparison. It should also remove any possible suspicion or criticism that might be offered otherwise.

Lone Star Politics

Texas no longer is the largest state in the union but it still conducts its elections in a big way. Last year there were so many candidates for the senate seat vacated by Vice President Lyndon Johnson that something new in ballots almost had to be devised. Now the lines are being drawn in typical Texas style for the race for governor next fall.

The "first primary," so called because the number of candidates may mean a lack of majority for any, comes up early in May. At this stage there are six Democrats and three Republicans in the running. They range in political philosophy all the way from a self-proclaimed "liberal," a Texas rarity, to a member (and proud of it) of the John Birch society.

Until recently it was pretty well assumed that John B. Connally, Jr., former Secretary of the Navy and handpicked by Vice President Johnson, would be the almost unopposed Democratic candidate. But then the present governor, Price Daniel, decided to run. So did the attorney general, a former highway commission chairman, a Houston lawyer (the liberal) and former Gen. Edwin Walker.

On the Republican side, once considered a quick way to political obscurity in Texas, there is Jack Cox who resigned from the Democratic party last year. Cox lost by 300,000 votes to Daniel in the 1960 gubernatorial primary. Other Republicans, encouraged by the unprecedented election of John Tower to the United States Senate, also signed up but most observers say the primary race in the Republican column will go to Cox.

The Democratic race, however, is very confused. Many Texans vote Democratic in the primary because their areas offer no contests on the Republican side except for governor. The spring vote then cannot be used to determine the fall division. And nobody knows as yet what pull Gen. Walker's conservative aims will have in a state that has shown little liberal tinge.

Anyway, there will be a lot of dust and sand coming from Texas in the next few months. None of the candidates is known as the silent type. Is any Texan?

Old Ships Used for Schools?

From The Des Moines Tribune

Sociologists and others pondering the population explosion here and elsewhere in the world have predicted that the time will come when cities will be built on stilts and rafts in the oceans to accommodate the overflow from the crowded lands.

When the idea was first propounded we thought it looked a long, long way into the future and perhaps was a bit far-fetched.

We find now that we were mistaken. An eastern real estate company is reported to be dickering for the purchase of old Navy ships that have been put in mothballs. It is planning to re-sell them to coastal cities that will anchor them in nearby harbors and fit them out for school rooms.

Becoming Scarce

Available land sites for additional schools are becoming so scarce and expensive in some crowded sections that floating school houses are beginning to have some economic attractions for hardpressed cities.

The floating schoolhouse idea is not unique, either. An Italian concern was a recent bidder on an outdated U.S. aircraft carrier. The company said it planned to turn the ship into a floating hotel and hoped to develop a chain of similar hotels in a number of Italian seaport towns.

Personal Income Up, but Tax Take Hits 44 Per Cent

From The Omaha World Herald

The Commerce Department reported yesterday the other day that personal income last year reached a record high of $116.7 billion, of which $36.5 billion was disposable income.

After a bit we'd like to introduce the department to the Bureau of the Budget.

First let us note that disposable income is what's left over after taxes. A quick calculation shows that $51 billion went into the Treasury's till.

Obvious Levies

However, this figure appears to include only income taxes and some of the more obvious levies. But this is only one bite. Not long ago the Budget Bureau suggested that the average taxpayer could find out what he really paid in federal taxes of all kinds if he added 42 per cent to his income tax and pool the total.

Personal income probably will rise again this year. But so will tax take. In 1959 it amounted to 10 per cent of total personal income. It is now up to 44 per cent—and heading for orbit.

Starving of Chinese May be Way to Control

From The Milwaukee Journal

The people of China have long been used to hunger. They never have had an adequate diet. In the years before Chiang Kai-shek was overthrown they came fairly close—the national average being only two hundred calories below what is generally regarded as the daily minimum requirement.

This year, however, for the fourth straight year, China's people will have to live on 350 calories less than the minimum. China's Communist overlords blame natural catastrophes such as drought and floods, but the truth is that mismanagement—especially the brutal imposition of the now-abandoned commune system for agriculture—is responsible.

Facing starvation, will the people of China rise against their Communist masters? Or will hunger leave them so weakened and apathetic that they will be easier than ever to control? Only time will tell.

What will future historians say was important about our time?

That question was posed by Look magazine to 20 eminent historians in the United States and Great Britain. Notables included Arnold Toynbee, Will Durant, Samuel Eliot Morison. Also queried were two Texans: Walter Prescott Webb and J. Frank Dobie.

On the brink of this nuclear age, Dobie looks down the long barrel of history to say: "... Weapons have gone full circle. The primitive boomerang used to come back to you, and so does the atomic bomb with its fallout. You get homicide and suicide at the same time."

lost status. They never lost the advantage after that although it was in part a couple of times.

Rebounding Impresses

The hosts did a pretty good job on the defensive boards in the first half but seldom had more than one shot of their own. With Steinmetz and Pawloski getting position to score the rebounds, they had quite a few second chances in the last two frames and they beat the Papermakers to the punch when the latter had the ball. Menasha was helped along in that two of Kimberly's big boys already had four fouls in the third period.

Although both teams committed 23 fouls, the Papermakers saw the violations concentrated in fewer players with the result that four starters were disqualified before the final whistle. Three regulars had four in the third frame and only Al Schmidt of the starters was around at the finish.

Menasha lost Bob Opsahl on fouls and three other players accumulated four. Kimberly started with a press but committed five fouls in the first 2:57 of play and it was called off later in the first quarter.

The Jays harassed their foes on defense the entire game.

Steinmetz and Pawloski each scored 24 points to share game honors. The former, who hit 27 in the 24-point loss at Kimberly, contributed four baskets in the third quarter comeback and five points in the fourth.

Pawloski, who only had six in the first meeting, earned six points in the third and eighth in the 21-point fourth. One of the few prep cagers, today, who shoots his free throws underhand, he was successful eight times in 11 tries.

Bill Herbold, who didn't start, contributed seven second half points and Tom Konkol, subbing for Opsahl, hit five, all in the last half.

Rick Polman, who sparked a 24-point Kimberly second quarter with 10 points, led the losers with 20. He fouled out with 55 seconds left. Hietpas went out with 47 seconds remaining after checking in with 14 points and Schmidt had 11. Wes VanderVelden departed with 2:36 to play and Tom Roovers left at the 1:34 mark.

Kimberly had scored the last six points of the first quarter to take a 17-14 lead into the beginning of second frame action. It led, 37-23, one time in the second stanza and, 41-29, at the break.

At 46-31, the Menashans hit a run of five and, after the visitors dropped in a basket, they hit seven more, shaving the score to 48-43. They could have done better but missed five of their six free throws in that span.

Later they trimmed the margin to a point at 51-50 and 53-52 but Polman's goal made it 55-52 at the completion of the quarter.

Pawloski drove in for a layup to start the wild final period and Herbold put in the lead goal after a steal. Pawloski followed with another fielder for a 58-53 score.

Hietpas connected for the losers but Steinmetz scored on a jump shot and Pawloski on two free throws for 62-57. Later it was 62-59 and then 64-61 when Herbold hit from well out on the court giving Menasha a 66-61 lead with 3:00 remaining.

Konkol's jumper at 2:08 gave the Jays a 7-point lead but it was trimmed to four (69-65) as Hietpas scored twice for KHS and Steinmetz made a free throw for Menasha. The clock showed 1:15 left.

With 55 seconds remaining, Pawloski's two gifts boosted the lead to six and 19 seconds

BRILLION — While an over-flow crowd howled its approval the Brillion Lions shot down Kohler's Blue Bombers 45-32 Friday night to give Brillion a share of the Eastern Wisconsin Conference Basketball title.

The victory in the season's finale was the Lions' 11th in league play against two losses and gave the school its first claim to E-W sports title since joining the conference 13 years ago. The Lions finished in a tie with Shiocton.

Kohler hit a season's high for an individual scoring 40 points on 18 field goals and four free throws. The performance enabled him to overtake Brillion's Lowell Reese and claim the individual scoring title for the second straight year.

He edged Reese 278 to 268. Reese held the scoring lead for the entire season and held a 13 point margin going into the last game. He had 15 points Friday.

Too Much
The Lions lost too much of everything for Kohler and despite many missed opportunities through over anxiousness, race to a 16-7 first period lead, paced by Ron Hansen's six points.

Don Heimke took over the scoring chores in the second quarter making six of Brillion's 17 points when the Lions added to their margin and ruled to a 33-19 half-time lead.

In the third quarter Reese picked up six of the Lions' 14 points and they went ahead 47-26. With a 59-32 lead early in the fourth quarter, Coach Jim Price cleared the bench and gave everyone a chance to share in the title glory.

The Lions' scoring balance and rebounding ability was the difference between the two teams. Three of the five starts hit well up in the double figures and paced by Hansen and Heimke with 16 apiece.

Reese had 24 of the Lions' 62 rebounds while Kohler only managed 38 rebounds. Brillion shot 31 per cent, hitting on 30 of 74 shots while Kohler had 23 per cent with 15 of 50 shots.

The scrapping Ghosts fought back as the second half started. They closed the gap to 47-31 and then to 49-34 before Steinhardt's gang returned. Their leader, Scott, swished four straight free throws as they pushed away to a 56-36 lead at the end of three quarters.

Kaukauna kept fighting back and after Promer's bucket with 5:49 left in the game, Two Rivers had only a 13-point lead, 56-43.

Pete Sweetman led still a third Two Rivers unit with six points in the last five minutes of the game. This gang warfare lifted the margin back to 60-49 with just over a minute to go.

Pawloski drove in for a layup to start the wild final period and Herbold put in the lead goal after a steal. Pawloski followed with another fielder for a 58-53 score.

Hietpas connected for the losers but Steinmetz scored on a jump shot and Pawloski on two free throws for 62-57. Later it was 62-59 and then 64-61 when Herbold hit from well out on the court giving Menasha a 66-61 lead with 3:00 remaining.

Konkol's jumper at 2:08 gave the Jays a 7-point lead but it was trimmed to four (69-65) as Hietpas scored twice for KHS and Steinmetz made a free throw for Menasha. The clock showed 1:15 left.

With 55 seconds remaining, Pawloski's two gifts boosted the lead to six and 19 seconds lost status. They never lost the advantage after that although it was in part a couple of times.

The hosts did a pretty good job on the defensive boards in the first half but seldom had more than one shot of their own. With Steinmetz and Pawloski getting position to score the rebounds, they had quite a few second chances in the last two frames and they beat the Papermakers to the punch when the latter had the ball. Menasha was helped along in that two of Kimberly's big boys already had four fouls in the third period.

Although both teams committed 23 fouls, the Papermakers saw the violations concentrated in fewer players with the result that four starters were disqualified before the final whistle. Three regulars had four in the third frame and only Al Schmidt of the starters was around at the finish.

Menasha lost Bob Opsahl on fouls and three other players accumulated four. Kimberly started with a press but committed five fouls in the first 2:57 of play and it was called off later in the first quarter.

The Jays harassed their foes on defense the entire game.

Steinmetz and Pawloski each scored 24 points to share game honors. The former, who hit 27 in the 24-point loss at Kimberly, contributed four baskets in the third quarter comeback and five points in the fourth.

Pawloski, who only had six in the first meeting, earned six points in the third and eighth in the 21-point fourth. One of the few prep cagers, today, who shoots his free throws underhand, he was successful eight times in 11 tries.

Bill Herbold, who didn't start, contributed seven second half points and Tom Konkol, subbing for Opsahl, hit five, all in the last half.

Rick Polman, who sparked a 24-point Kimberly second quarter with 10 points, led the losers with 20. He fouled out with 55 seconds left. Hietpas went out with 47 seconds remaining after checking in with 14 points and Schmidt had 11. Wes VanderVelden departed with 2:36 to play and Tom Roovers left at the 1:34 mark.

Kimberly had scored the last six points of the first quarter to take a 17-14 lead into the beginning of second frame action. It led, 37-23, one time in the second stanza and, 41-29, at the break.

At 46-31, the Menashans hit a run of five and, after the visitors dropped in a basket, they hit seven more, shaving the score to 48-43. They could have done better but missed five of their six free throws in that span.

Later they trimmed the margin to a point at 51-50 and 53-52 but Polman's goal made it 55-52 at the completion of the quarter.

John Koschmann (32) of Fox Valley Lutheran High School is shown getting off a shot against Winnebago Lutheran Friday night at the Foxes gym. Ken Neubert (34) and Ron Uhlenbrauck (14) are getting set for a possible rebound. Winnebago players nearby are Tom Jeffers (43) and Tim Willie (33). FVL won the game, 64-32, to wrap up the conference title.

WARHAWKS RECORD
Ninth Loop Win In 62-59 Victory
OSHKOSH—The Oshkosh State College basketball bubble broke Friday night under the pin-point shooting of Whitewater's Bob Budgins and J. P. Fisher, 62-59.

The Warhawks clinched at least a tie for the Wisconsin State College Conference crown and broke a six game Oshkosh winning streak.

Whitewater is now 9-1 in the conference and 15-3 overall, while OSC is 6-5 in loop play and 9-10 for the season.

Budgins scored 20 points, 17 of them in the second half, and Fisher added 19 as the Warhawks dominated the last 10 minutes of play. The Titans' Dean Austin, the conference's leading scorer, was held to 15 points.

HEK 16 of 18
Whitewater was phenomenal in the second half, making 16 of 18 shots from the floor. Budgins and Fisher each missed one. The Warhawks shot 54 per cent for of the game. Both teams made 9 of 28 in the first half.

The lead changed hands eight times and the score was tied eight times before Whitewater moved in front for good, 34-32 with 14 minutes to play. The Titans chased from that point but never could quite catch the visitors.

Whitewater's biggest lead was 12 points, 58-47 with 2:48 left. The Warhawks strategy was to work the ball outside and then feed either Budgins under the basket or Fisher driving in.

The first half started fast but slowed to a crawl when Whitewater moved into a zone defense. The Titans tried to run patterns for several minutes but failed.

Jim Jaeger, Ron Lindemann and Doug Carrievau then played catch for the better part of seven minutes in an attempt to draw the defense out, but were unsuccessful.

Jaeger and Lindemann each succeeded in drawing a foul but then failed to convert on the free throws.

Chiefs Upset Wolves To Throw Little Nine Into Three-Way Tie

Winnebago Leads Chance for Solo Title by 64-52

LITTLE NINE CONFERENCE (Final Standings)

Team	W	L
Winnebago	10	3
Shiocton	9	4
Kimberly	8	5
Menasha	7	6
Brillion	6	7

Friday Night's Results:
Winnebago at Shiocton 64-52
Kimberly at Menasha 41-29
Brillion at Kimberly 40-35
Shiocton at Brillion 40-35

There will be no solo champion in the Little Nine basketball race this year. Shiocton eliminated that possibility Friday night with a stunning 64-52 upset of the season long leader, Winnebago.

As a result, victories by Reedsville and Denmark elevated these two teams into a three way tie with Winnebago for the 1961-62 title. Each of the three teams finished with a 10-3 league record.

Reedsville handed Wrightstown its 13th straight loop setback by a gigantic 8-44 margin while Denmark was claiming its share of the title with a 65-41 triumph over Hilbert.

Little Bear Creek finished its best basketball season in years by stopping Omro, 59-53 and moving into fourth place in the final standings. Hortonville jumped in to a fifth place tie with Omro on the strength of a 61-44 win over Freedom.

Seizing Champion
The big story, however, was at Shiocton. Coach John Bower's quintet, defending Little Nine Conference champions, had an "in and out season" thus far. But the upset of the Wolves makes it rank with one of the best for the Shiocks.

There was double reason for celebration in Shiocton Friday as Russ Conradt tossed in 30 points to take the Little Nine scoring title with 285 in 13 games. Dave Larsen of Denmark, co-leader last season, scored only five and finished second.

Winnebago came to Shiocton Friday just one game away from the solo title. The Wolves burst off to a 20-13 first quarter lead and it looked as if it might be a repeat of their earlier victory over the Shiocks.

However, Shiocton gradually floor and Kuehl from the line to put the Rockets in a four-point lead, at 44-39, but Bodoh added a free throw for the Truckers.

Kuehl hit on a jump shot but Clintonville's Mick Nelson countered for Two Rivers to make the score 46-42 with a minute to play in the third period.

Neenah led 49-43 going into the final quarter but Rogness' fielder, two free throws by Neubauer, and a goal by Wollerman ran the count up to 55-45.

Greeley canned two from the line to make it 55-47 before Neenah tucked away the victory on goals by Burton, Wollerman, and another by Burton. The trio of buckets made the score 61-47, with only three minutes left to play.

Neenah lost both Burton and Rogness on fouls in the last four minutes of the game. Rogness left with about four minutes remaining and Burton was excused with a minute to go.

Neenah shot at a 38 per cent clip, making 25 of 66 shots. Clintonville hit 42 per cent, making 23 of 55 attempts.

Trucker guard Dan Yaeger left late in the game with wrenched knee. It was Yaeger that helped pace the Truckers in the final quarter.

Consumer Confidence Up

Growth of consumer confidence in the economy slowed during the past three months, partly due to the influence of international developments, according to a report by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center. The latest survey of consumer attitudes and inclinations to buy found that over-all expectations have not changed significantly from August, and the economic outlook remains favorable.

Of all families interviewed, 46 per cent thought that business conditions were improved over a year ago. Only 19 per cent thought so in November, 1960. For families with incomes over $7,500, it was 56 per cent this year compared with 17 per cent a year ago. The ratio of those who say they are better off financially rose from 27 per cent a year ago to 32 per cent today.

The study also revealed that uneasiness caused by the high level of unemployment seems to be lessened. Consumer attitudes toward the purchase of autos appear to be "one of the strong aspects of the current situation, but nothing to indicate boom conditions, the report indicated.

"The consumer sector is not likely to provide a stimulus for an economic boom."

Spring Road School Issue Up to People

Petition Asks for Referendum Vote on Attachment April 3

NEENAH — It's up to the people to decide now if Spring Road School District is to be attached to Neenah.

Residents of that district in the Town of Menasha and voters in the city of Neenah as well, will vote April 3 on that question. A majority vote in each district is needed to attach the district to the Neenah school system.

A petition with 200 signers was filed Friday with County Clerk Neil A. Hoffmann asking that a referendum be held on that school district attachment as ordered by the Winnebago County School Committee after its hearing Jan. 17. Today was the deadline for such a referendum request.

The county clerk said the petition is to be checked next week by a town official to determine if the signers are residents of the Town of Menasha. Only 69 signers are needed under the law to bring about referendum in the rural district, which comprises the entire western side of the Town of Menasha, and the City of Neenah.

With 200 names signed to the petition, there is no doubt but that the petition will be declared to have sufficient signers.

Vote at Hearing
The county school committee at a hearing Jan. 17 voted 5 to 1 to dissolve Spring Road District as of June 30 and attach it to Neenah. An informal vote at that hearing showed 130 in favor and 70 against attachment to Neenah.

At a special school meeting Dec. 11 the residents voted 107 to 54 in favor of establishing an independent high school district. Proponents of an independent high school earlier stated that residents of Triangle and Badger School districts in Outagamie County may join with them in establishing a high school.

If residents of Spring Road vote in favor of attaching to Neenah at the referendum and Neenah voters reject such attachment, then the attachment is rejected and Spring Road will be "on its own."

If Spring Road residents reject attachment and Neenah voters favor it, Spring Road will not be attached. Attachment must be endorsed by the majority in each community.

Once the referendum on the county school committee's action is taken, no changes can be made for a year, school officials indicated.

Cancer Expert Says Quarter of Doctors Have Quit Smoking

MADISON (AP)—A University of Wisconsin professor of surgery said Friday a preliminary survey of 411 Wisconsin doctors has shown that of the 302 who smoked prior to 1955, more than 25 per cent have since quit smoking. Samp said that of the 411 doctors interviewed, 302 were smokers in 1955 and 109 had never smoked. Since 1955, 80 doctors quit smoking, and 222 continued to smoke. In the same period, only three doctors in the sample started smoking, he said.

Rural Civil Defense Reports Asked in Winnebago County

OSHKOSH — Plans for a county-wide voluntary leader report meeting are being made at which township leaders will be asked to report on the status of rural civil defense, Winnebago County agent Vernon Peroutky said.

Town chairmen have asked that such reports be kept on official record in the courthouse for referral in case of disaster, including radioactive fallout or tornado.

Reports given by the county extension agents showed attendance at the various town meetings on protection against radioactive fallout ranged from four to 72 persons.

Peroutky reported several communities have expressed interest in having Red Cross first aid courses provided.

Thomas Webster, ASCS office manager, is chairman of the county.

Mead Paper Has Higher Sales; Earnings Down

Mead Corp. announced preliminary sales figures in 1961 of $407,200,000, compared with net sales of $389,900,000 for 1960.

Not earnings after taxes for 1961 were $12,200,000, as against $14,500,000 for 1960. Income taxes for 1961 were $10,500,000 as compared with $14,500,000 for 1960.

After payment of preferred dividends, earnings per share were $2.21, on the average common shares outstanding during 1961. This compares with $2.04 on the average shares outstanding during 1960. Gilbart Paper Co. of Menasha is a subsidiary of Mead.

Representatives of the City and two firms buying property in the Appleton industrial park met in Mayor Clarence Mitchell's office for deed signing ceremonies Friday. From left are John S. Wells, of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.; Andree Pertain, Appleton Wire Works; Percy Menning, Appleton Coated Paper Co.; Bruce Purdy, Appleton Wire Works; Mayor Mitchell, Clerk Elden Broch, and David Fulton, attorney for the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. The power company purchased 11 acres in the park for storage purposes. Appleton Wire Works and the Appleton Coated Paper Co., under the name of the Industrial Associates Corp., bought 18 acres in the area but did not reveal plans for use.

Appleton Tax Office Altered Slightly by Reorganization

More Personnel, Less Area To Cover, John Gronouski Says

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — An Appleton district office of the state department of taxation will remain under a field services reorganization of the department that is now being planned, the head of the department said here today. John Gronouski, state tax commissioner, said the Appleton office may be larger in personnel terms under the reorganization planned to take effect later in the year, although its functions will be modified somewhat and its geographical jurisdiction will be trimmed.

Central Filing

The field office distribution is being modified because of the central filing in Madison of all income tax returns that will take effect with the 1963 filings, and the administration of the new state sales tax, the official said.

With electronic processing ready for installation for about half of total personal income tax returns, centralized filing has been decided upon. But auditing service will continue to be handled through the district offices, which will be increased from the present four to 10 and possible more, the commissioner said. Similarly, the sales tax auditors will work out of the district offices, for economies in travel and other expenses.

Gronouski would not say where the additional district offices will be located, but if there are as many as 13, as he said is possible, it is likely that there will be two additional offices in the Fox Valley, probably at Fond du Lac and Green Bay.

Discount Protests

The commissioner discounted protests from lawyers, accountants and others that the filing of tax returns in Madison would be inconvenient and costly to them. There will be a dispatch service from the central files in Madison to the district offices, for the state auditors and any others who may need such records, he said.

The four district income tax offices are now at Appleton, Milwaukee, Eau Claire and Madison. Corporation and estate tax returns are already handled on a central basis in Madison. Sales tax returns are also being handled through the Madison central office.

Appearing at the midwinter meeting of the State Bar of Wisconsin, Gronouski recommended adoption of a business machine card form on which taxpayers would claim a standard 10 per cent deduction instead of itemizing deductions. He estimated 900,000 persons would use the card,

Paint-Filled Bulb Tossed on House

A lightbulb full of bright red paint was thrown against the side of the William Vander Hyden home, 1404 N. Gillett St., late Friday night, Appleton police said today.

Mrs. Vander Hyden called police at 11:40 p.m. and investigating police recovered part of the lightbulb. Apparently the socket was removed, the bulb was filled with paint and the hole was sealed with wax, police said.

Vander Hyden is a non-striking employee of Pierce Auto Body Works. A strike was called at Pierce Auto Body by the Teamsters Union Jan. 31.

Robert Schlieve, secretary-treasurer for the Teamsters, said he is "certain none of our people are involved in this."

He said he feels it is an incident created by people opposed to the strike to create bad publicity for the strikers and cause them to lose public sympathy.

Schlieve offered $25 for information leading to the arrest of the people involved, and added that strikers have been given written and oral instructions to refrain from that type of action.

whereas the department currently handles 1.5 million lengthy tax forms annually. He said use of the cards would cut auditing work by about 60 per cent.

Gronouski said he has hired a chief counsel and two deputies to fill new positions within the department. He said implementation of the new tax law demands about 150 auditors, but declared that the state cannot get them at the salaries the state offers.

He also has hired two attorneys to prepare rules based on the new state tax law which would bring it more into line with federal tax rules, Gronouski said.

Counties Told How To Attract Industry

State and Private Agencies Tell Of Services Available for Effort

MANITOWOC — Aids to attract and hold industry were outlined by state agencies and private individuals at a seven-county industrial planning meeting Friday.

David Carley, State Department of Resource Development director, was unable to attend the meeting because he and Gov. Nelson had been called to Washington Thursday night. David Wiggins, from the department, filled in for Carley.

Representatives of industries and municipalities from Calumet, Outagamie, Brown, Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac and Winnebago counties attended the session.

Take care of the industry you already have, Lucian Schlimgen, assistant director of industrial development with the state, warned the audience. Home industries are deluged daily with letters of new industrial site offerings. Work closely with industry so the community can help and relieve irritations — even to the fixing of a parking ticket when the company car is left at a meter outside the main plant, he said.

Railroads Role
When looking for new industry, Schlimgen said, proximity to

State Indians Get Contract From Army

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—A band of Wisconsin Indians now engaged in basket-weaving displayed some Yankee trading shrewdness and came away Friday with a $350,000 government contract.

The Lac Courte Oreilles, an arm of the Chippewa tribe, submitted the lowest bid among 21 firms competing for an Army contract for 162,000 wooden ammunition boxes for 165 MM shells.

A spokesman for the Joliet arsenal said the contract is expected to nearly double the work force of the Shelton Basket Co. in Hayward, Wis., which is controlled by the Oreilles and employs 60 men and women members of the tribe.

The spokesman said he believes it is the first defense contract the government has awarded to a corporation controlled by American Indians.

A party of Indians will travel to the arsenal's Elwood branch in full ceremonial regalia Wednesday to receive the award from Col. Paul J. Savage.

Among those expected at the award ceremony are Joe Trepani, 72, chairman of the tribal council, Steve Taylor, vice president of the basket company, and Ernest Herndon, a director of the firm and a member of the tribal council.

Religious Group Picks Speaker For Conference

OSHKOSH — Vincent J. Lucareli, Kenosha, will be the speaker for the sixth annual brotherhood banquet of the South Winnebago Division of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Feb. 22 at the Knights of Columbus hall in Oshkosh.

Lucareli is the Wisconsin co-chairman of the conference. He is a past grand knight and former district deputy of the Knights of Columbus.

He also is president of the Kenosha Community Fund, district governor of Lions International, president and organizer of the Wisconsin Lions Club Foundation for the Handicapped and past commander of the Kenosha American Legion Post.

He recently was elected a national director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Dr. Eugene Sonnenleitner, grand knight, is banquet committee chairman. John E. Fitzgerald is chairman of the South Winnebago Conference.

Chief Surgeon Dies At Veterans Hospital

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Dr. John G. Slaney, chief surgeon at the Veterans Administration Hospital here, died Friday at the age of 60. Born in Richland County, Wis., Dr. Slaney was graduated from Marquette University medical school and the University of Vienna. He served at several VA hospitals, including the one at Wood, Wis. The widow and two sons survive.

New Voters Register

MENASHA — Thirty-three new voters registered at the Friday night special open hours held by City Clerk Harry Kind. Deadline for registration for the March 6 judicial and mayoral primary election is Wednesday. Voters may register in regular office hours.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — With a fast-paced itinerary covering 11 appearances in the Fox River Valley starting Monday evening, Gov. Gaylord Nelson is expanding his campaign schedule considerably.

Executive office aides here made no comment when they turned over to reporters the governor's schedule of engagements for next week which included 11 separate appearances and speeches in three Fox River Valley counties in two and one half days.

But in the language of the capitol, the meaning was plain. Nelson is launching a new round of voter contacts, in preparation for a candidacy in the fall. He has not said what office he will seek. But most members of his Democratic party following believe he will seek the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

Words Often Misused: Distinguish between RESTLESS (unrestful; disinclined to rest; fidgety) and RESTIVE (balky, as commonly applied to a horse; or fretful under restraint, as applied to persons). Thus: "His lack of rest made the man very restive." "Because of the speaker's long harangue, the audience became restive."

Costa Rica Vote Castro Setback

Cuban Leader's Backers Worked, Failed to Gain Election Ground

BY GERRY ROSENBAUM
Chicago Daily News Service
BUENOS AIRES — No matter in what light the outcome of Costa Rica's presidential election is viewed, it represents a setback for the Castro-communist forces there and throughout Latin America.

Coming as it did in the wake of the Punta del Este conference, the election might be said to have added injury to the insult that Fidel Castro's regime suffered at the inter-American parley. The Castro-communist strategy in Costa Rica was to try to bring about the defeat of Francisco J. Orlich by backing his principal right-wing opponent Rafael A. Calderon Guardia.

The idea was not aimed so much against Orlich himself as against his National Liberation party headed by Jose Figueres, a man widely hated and even feared by the Castro-communists of much of Latin America. Figueres is an energetic and articulate spokesman for the anti-Castro anti-communist left, which includes such figures as his friends President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico.

Clear Majority
The Castro-communists felt — and even their opponents agreed with them — that if Orlich were defeated the Figueres party would disintegrate and no longer be the bulwark it has been against communist advances in Costa Rica. They also calculated that it would dishearten and weaken other anti-Castro anti-communist parties in the rest of Latin America. But Orlich not only won the four-man race by receiving more than the necessary 40 per cent plurality, he also got a clear majority of the total votes cast and carried into office enough congressmen to give him a narrow but absolute majority in the national legislature.

Although Orlich had been the betting favorite in the race there was widespread fear among many of his supporters that the backing given Calderon surreptitiously by the Castro — communists might prove enough to force Orlich into a runoff with the democratic former surgeon — president.

Calderon himself has denounced both Castro and communism but he was not above accepting any support he might get from the Castro — communist camp — or anybody else for that matter — in his comeback attempt.

The fourth man in the race was an out and out Castroite who ran under the banner of the "Popular Democratic Action party," a communist front organization. But the Castro-communists passed the word that their followers were to vote only for Democratic Action congressional candidates and not for Enrique Obregon, the presidential aspirant.

As it turned out Obregon received a bare 5,000 votes to the 178,000 cast for Orlich and 123,000 that went to Calderon. Hard core communist strength in Costa Rica is generally estimated at close to the figure garnered by Obregon — plus a few traveling vote of as high as seven or eight per cent. It's doubtful however that the hard core boys would have broken discipline to vote for Obregon.

The likelihood is that what few ballots he received came from pro-Castroites who do not consider themselves communists and from some ordinary voters who marked for him in protest against the other candidates.

Conservative Wing
A successful businessman and planter, Orlich represents the conservative wing of the Figueres party although he is a close personal friend of the latter's. Orlich has said on occasion that he is "the Nixon" of his party and that Figueres is the "Nelson Rockefeller."

Ironically enough, the conservative 54-year-old president-elect has often toyed with the idea of legalizing the now outlawed communist party in Costa Rica. He said that it might be "convenient" to make the party legal so that its members could operate in the open and thus become more vulnerable to being watched more closely than is now the case.

In defeat the Castro-communists might thus gain a "victory" but under the terms and conditions envisaged by Orlich it would be a dubious one at best.

TV's Mr. Wilson Dies in Hollywood
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Joseph S. Kearns, 55, the harassed Mr. Wilson on the "Dennis the Menace" television series, died today.

His doctor said Kearns had a cerebral hemorrhage. He had entered the Park View Hospital Sunday after suddenly going into a coma.

Only Sunday Mr. Wilson had jokingly willed his gold watch to Dennis because he thought Dennis was in ill health. The program had been filmed prior to Kearns' illness.

Dennis' mother, Mrs. Betty North, said her son, Jay, would be heartbroken by Kearns' death. "Jay called him Uncle Joe," she said. "We will try to keep it from Jay immediately because they are shooting now."

Widening Rift Between Moscow, Peking Poses East, West Issues

The widening rift between Moscow and Peking is raising new problems and questions not just inside the communist camp but also in Washington and other capitals, allied and neutral. Is the split likely to lead to an open break between the two major communist powers? If so, what dangers or opportunities would the United States and the rest of the world face? Does Peking's "harder" foreign policy line forecast new Chinese toughness or aggression somewhere in Asia? Or, to look at it another way, do three successive years of severe economic crisis within Red China mean that Peking may finally have to back down, out of weakness, in its ideological struggle with Moscow? Indeed, is the meddling and intervention in already troubled parts of Asia, the Middle East, Africa and Latin America.

There is some evidence to suggest that Moscow and Peking already are vying for control over active revolutionary movements in some parts of the world, although — in Laos, for example — the "competition" often takes the form of cooperation in the support of guerrillas, open military action and subversion.

Coordinate Strategies
In the hot spots of the cold war, in other words, Russia and China are still apparently coordinating their strategies. Or, as it is sometimes put, no matter how serious the differences between the two powers, the non-communist world remains the common enemy.

Peking and Moscow now openly differ on a wide range of issues, including the adequacy of past and current Soviet economic aid to China, the patterns of economic development which China has pursued (especially the now virtually abandoned commune movement) and alleged Soviet interference in Chinese communist party politics.

The dispute has jelled, however, on a set of ideological issues. One is the question of Soviet primacy in the world communist movement. — Moscow's right to dictate or dominate the global strategy of the communist conspiracy. Another is the form of that strategy — whether communism should follow a program of "peaceful co-existence" or one of "active co-existence."

Subtle Distinction
The distinction between the two strategies is a subtle one but it is important. Both share the same goal, overthrow of non-communist authority everywhere in the world and the establishment of a worldwide Communist society. Moscow's current line of "peaceful co-existence" calls for (a) avoiding all-out war with the West and (b) an economic and political offensive to win the world to communism with (c) cautious military and other support to anticolonial and revolutionary movements in unstable countries such as Cuba, the Congo and South Vietnam. The intent is to "capture" these revolutions (as in Cuba) or direct them (as in South Vietnam).

Peking's line of "active co-existence" calls for an all-out global revolutionary struggle, offering no quarter to the democracies or the emerging societies, and pressing the communization of the world even at the risk of war with the United States and its allies.

The lines of the conflict may be clarified in the next few weeks. On the same day, March 5, Red China will convene its party congress in Peking while the central committee of the Soviet party opens a special meeting in Moscow. Officially the Moscow agenda covers problems of Soviet agriculture. In addition, most observers agree, Russia's leaders will discuss the de-Stalinization program and the ideological conflict within the communist bloc.

Several Alternatives
U.S. policy-makers, meanwhile, face a range of policy alternatives. They can attempt to strengthen Moscow's hand by meeting Khrushchev's terms in Berlin or some other dispute or they can attempt to aggravate the Sino-Soviet rift by relaxing our policy toward Red China — by modifying our trade embargo, for example, or by offering wheat to alleviate the famine conditions in China.

Very few observers see any promise in either of these alternatives, however. The more realistic course, most experts agree, is to treat the Sino-Soviet split as a problem we can do little to influence. Our main job, they say, is to be prepared for the worst possible consequences of the rivalry while we support and encourage the stabilization and democratization of those countries of the world where communism of both the Russian and Chinese variety is now exploiting poverty and mass dissatisfaction.

Rep. Ashbrook Addresses
GOP Lincoln Day Dinner

The threat of a well-oiled and New Frontier influenced by aides socialistic "New Frontier" ex- who are sympathetic to the cause pounded by the Democratic party was outlined Friday night for 200 Republicans at the annual GOP Lincoln Day dinner at the Conway Hotel.

Rep. John Ashbrook, an Ohio congressman who classifies himself as a conservative Republican, can tell Republicans that where Lincoln fought a battle against slavery and the indivisibility of the union, the Republican party "is fighting a battle against slavery to the state."

He charged that as history proved Lincoln right in his battle, the Republican party is right present administration," Ashbrook said. Administrative aides.

Jury Expected To be Named in Murder Trial

MADISON (AP) — A jury was expected to be chosen in Dane County Circuit Court today to hear testimony in the first degree murder trial of three Chicago area men charged with slaying a Sauk County patrolman.

The defense and prosecutors have spent the entire week challenging prospective jurors. At the end of the fifth day of proceedings Friday only nine of the 30 panel members had been accepted tentatively.

The jury will hear the state's case against William Welter, 23, and Richard Nickl, 27, and Lawrence Nutley, both 27. Each has pleaded innocent to murder charges in the Aug. 21 slaying of 25-year-old James Jantz of Baraboo. Jantz was shot to death in a gunfight in Lake Delton.

Klan Official Seeks Georgia State Office

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A Ku Klux Klanman brought into federal court after "Freedom Riders" violence here last year is a candidate for lieutenant governor of Alabama.

Alvin A. Horn of Ashland, Ala., still is under a federal court injunction forbidding interference with Freedom Riders and other interstate bus travelers. He qualified Friday to run for lieutenant governor in the Democratic primaries in May.

Horn is described in Federal Court orders prohibiting bus violence as Grand Dragon of the U.S. Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan Inc.

Hobby Club Contest Winners Announced

Five Fox Cities youngsters, four boys and one girl, have won watch winders for their entries in the Hobby Club contest of Jan. 31.

They are Robert Brooker, 9, 606 W. Brewster St., Appleton; Alan Wenzel, 7, 732 Appleton Road, Menasha; James Solle, 7, 634 S. Lake St., Neenah; Charles Dorn, 9, route 2, Neenah; and Sally Stuyvenberg, 9, 231 Ryan St., Kaukauna.

These winners will receive watch winders from Columnist Cappy Dick within a few weeks.

growth of the school and will probably generate even larger enrollments in the future, state college officials said here today.

Building projects scheduled for completion and starting this year on the Oshkosh campus will cost more than $6,500,000, the largest capital budget of any school in the nine college system, said E. R. McPhee, director of the state colleges.

Increase Enrollment

He said the big budget was allocated to Oshkosh because of the heavily increased enrollment trends there, and the signs that they will continue for the years ahead.

The school had 2,810 students in the last semester, and has about 2,800 for the current semester. If the normal growth continues in the fall, the student population will easily spill over 3,000.

Housing availability has been shown to be a powerful factor in enrollment attraction in the state colleges. Two new dormitories with space for 500 students will be opened in the fall and private businessmen are providing 300 additional student housing units, McPhee said. Meanwhile, construction on two new dormitories recently authorized will start in May.

College Library

The regents expect to dedicate and open the new college library in June or July, and will authorize construction of a new science building starting about June. An enlargement of the campus student union to double its capacity will begin next October.

The college now has about 150 faculty members, and regents at their February meeting here next week are expected to make faculty appointments in anticipation of enrollment increases in the fall. The additions at Oshkosh will probably number about 15 teachers.

Gary Grubner Shatters Own 2-Week-Old Shot Put Mark

BY ED OBERMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Big Gary Grubner of New York University shattered his own 2-week-old indoor shot-put record twice Friday night, tossing the ball 64-feet-10 1/4 inches, then getting off a mighty heave of 64-11 1/4.

Grubner's 64-11 1/4 came on his final throw just as the crowd was settling for the New York Athletic Club games in Madison Square Garden.

A 19-year-old sophomore, Grubner had a fantastic series of throws—61-7 1/2, 64-10 1/4, 63-2, 64-4, 64-11 1/4.

Just two weeks ago in the Millrose Games, Grubner, a 255-pound mass of muscle, set an indoor mark of 63-10 1/4.

Grubner, who shot into prominence less than a year ago and has progressed in fantastic fashion, now needs only to break Bill Nieder's 65-10 world outdoor record to become the greatest shot-putter in history.

Last week, in the Los Angeles

Times Games, he got off a heave of 65-2, but it was a flail. He settled for 63-4.

Nieder, who has a bad knee, quit the shot-put game last year to try his hand at professional boxing.

Grubner's toss erased the recent record of ex-world shot put king Parry O'Brien. That was 61-4 1/2 set back in 1928. O'Brien had to scratch from this meet because of a hand injury.

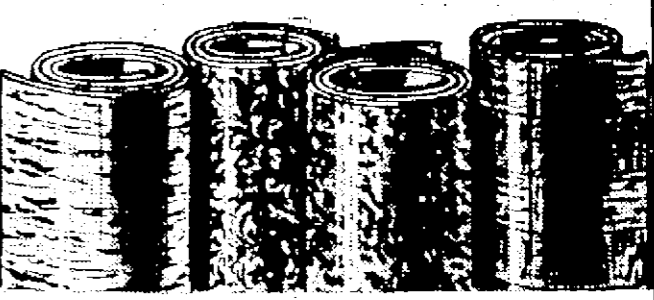

"I don't think I have reached my indoor peak, yet," said the confident Grubner when he had finished what probably was the greatest series ever. "I have been aiming at the National AAU Championships next week."

"Too bad O'Brien couldn't make it. He would have given me more incentive."

"The weather was bad all last week and I also had a cold, so I could do was work out in the gym. I figure next week, I can do 65 feet."

U. S. Building Up Market for Nonfat Dry Milk

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is building abroad a growing market for non-fat dry milk.

An Agriculture Department report showed today that commercial exports were 100 million pounds last year compared with only 19 million pounds in 1950. Even larger quantities of non-fat dry milk were moved abroad last year under foreign aid and donation programs. The United States has been the leading exporter, a position once held by New Zealand.

The department said the expanding market for this dairy product "is based on the fact that governments and private consumers alike are more and more conscious of this product's nutritional value."

Signup Scheduled in Calumet ASC Program

CHILTON — Farmers are now able to sign up for participation in the 1962 Feed Grain Program for spring planted crops, according to Herbert Goeldi, chairman of the Calumet County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Signups will be continued through March 30.

The program will apply to 1962 crop acreage of corn, grain sorghum, wheat and barley. Growers will be notified of the 1962 base and payment rates before Feb. 17. In the townships, signups will be conducted between Feb. 19 and March 9.

Record Price Paid for Gilt

Overall Average Up From Spring Sale at County Auction

Durrell Mueller, route 2, Seymour paid a record-tying $300 for a Duroc bred gilt consigned by Schuster Brothers, route 2, Berlin, at the 11th annual Outagamie County Spring Swine Sale. Over 300 farmers attended this year's sale at the Outagamie County Farm Saturday.

The $300 price equaled the price paid for a bred gilt consigned by Sambs Brothers at last year's sale. The total price paid for the 31 animals consigned was $2,920.00 for an overall average of $94.51.

The 14 bred gilts averaged $106.97 and 10 boars averaged $70.25. Compared to the 1961 sale, the overall average was up $10.07. Boars averaged $9.18 above a year ago and bred gilts sold for an average of $5.00 less than in 1961.

The top-selling boar was a Yorkshire consigned by Krahn Brothers, Seymour, and purchased for $165.00 by Carleton Schlitz, route 2, Shiocton. Schlitz also purchased the second highest sale gilt, a Yorkshire from the Al Bruns herd, at $135.00.

A breakdown by breed

9 Yorkshires	$116.66
6 Durocs	$8.33
11 Landrace	$3.63
2 Chester Whites	$3.75

Poland China	75.00

Outagamie County Agricultural Agent John Powers, says the animals consigned to this sale were the most uniform in the history of County sales. He credits the Swine Testing Program for this uniformity.

The majority of the pigs had testing station records in their pedigrees. Characteristics such as carcass quality, rate of gain, and feed efficiency are 50 to 60 per cent inheritable and the testing station program is an official method of measuring these qualities. The next Outagamie County Swine Breeders Sale will be the open gilt and boar sale in September at the Seymour Fair Grounds.

Farm Institute to Have Talk on Red Agriculture

Those who would like to take a peek behind the iron curtain will have a chance at the 1962 Clintonville Farm Institute. The institute will be held at the Clintonville High School on Thursday, March 8, starting at 10:30 a.m. and finishing by 3:30 p.m.

This year's institute features a number of speakers, among them Art Sturm of Manawa. Sturm, a Manawa businessman, will share his experiences by way of colored slides and a talk on his recent trip to Russia and other European countries.

He left Wisconsin on Sept. 9, 1961, toured six European countries and arrived home on Sept. 26.

This tour was the second tour for agricultural leaders from Wisconsin. It included such places as Brussels, Belgium, East and West Germany, Warsaw, Poland, Budapest, Hungary, Moscow and Kharkov, Russia and Paris, France.

Purpose of this tour was to give our Wisconsin agricultural leaders an opportunity to carry a message of good will to farmers and urban people in the Communist dominated areas of Europe. Sturm visited the Kremlin, several large collective farms and other points of interest in Europe.
